

Gabrianna Dumaguin

Product Designer

A product designer with an engineering background and over two years of experience working on consumer-facing products.

MARCH 2016–PRESENT • 2+ YEARS

Product Designer, Yelp

Working closely with product managers and engineers to design and ship numerous consumer-facing features on iOS, Android, and web to Yelp's millions of users, with a focus on collecting and highlighting user-generated content on Yelp. As the sole designer on each of my projects, I'm in charge of conducting user research, creating prototypes throughout all stages of the process, delivering final visuals, and overseeing production to completion.

JUNE–AUGUST 2015 • 3 MONTHS

UX Design Intern, Constant Contact

Designed and coded the markup for various web pages and web app components, built an interactive prototype for the redesign of the mobile app using proto.io, and evaluated different prototyping software for the product design team.

AUGUST 2012–DECEMBER 2015 • 3.5 YEARS

B.A. Computer Science, UC Berkeley

Earned my degree in Computer Science while simultaneously discovering my passion for design. With no official design program for undergrads at UC Berkeley, I honed my product design skills through various clubs and side projects.